The RI DEM Division of Agriculture is accredited by the USDA to certify organic farms and handlers of organic foods. The operations listed in this brochure have been inspected by the DEM to ensure they are following USDA organic standards. Only certified operations are allowed to use the Rhode Island or USDA organic logos on their products.

Organic food is produced by farmers who emphasize the use of renewable resources and the conservation of soil and water to enhance environmental quality for future generations. Organic food is produced without using most conventional pesticides, fertilizers made with synthetic ingredients or sewage sludge, bioengineering or ionizing radiation.

On organic farms, soil fertility is maintained with compost, cover crops, rock mineral powders and other natural fertilizers. Pests and diseases are controlled by crop rotation and biological control and by applying nonsynthetic materials. Weeds are managed by practices such as cultivation, mulches and flaming.
